The Hal Sharp Judo Teachers Foundation is a nonprofit educational organization dedicated to serving the United States judo community in order to supplement its development and training programs. Our aims are strictly to share educational material and enhance the sport of judo in the United States and not to be involved in judo politics.

The Foundation is pleased to announce the publication of a dynamic judo reference document which is now available on our website www.judo4teachers.com. This document contains both text and approximately 100 hours of instructional videos for an interactive learning experience. Our website has been designed to answer the needs of dojo senseis and their students of all ages.

Sensei Gary Goltz, MBA, 8th Dan, has been designated as President & Chairman and charged with creating a judo think tank built on organization effectiveness and leadership development utilizing a social enterprise model. The commitment to impact strategically is central to the foundation's mission.

Our judo educational consortium's purpose is locating judo educators who can furnish information to our website and participate in education seminars. We plan to engage scholars from Japan, France, Great Britain, Italy, and Germany as well as other judo experts to create a comprehensive foundation of teaching and learning. The foundation hopes to hear from sensei worldwide sharing their experiences developing judo in the spirit and memory of Hal Sharp, 10th Dan.
